

BOX INSPIRATION #9

Container Air Conditioning

Welcome to the ninth issue of Box Inspiration, your weekly dose of fresh container conversion ideas. This week we are talking about cooling down with container air conditioning.

For those of you that require climate control in your container, we can provide a wide range of air conditioning, air handling and ventilation options. You may be storing products or equipment that require a certain temperature, or you may be working out of your container and require air conditioning during these hot and sticky summer months.
